Lester Liddle is an expat looking for action in 70s Rhodesia. He finds it in the shape of Mia, a beautiful mixed-race teenager. After encouraging her to join an erotic dance troupe in a Mafia run night club in Mozambique, he follows and is made the Chef de Ballet. They manage to escape with their lives, as the African Freedom Fighters began to take over the city, and flee back to Rhodesia with its own bloody Bush War. Their adventure continues in apartheid South Africa where she lives as a white woman and finally to the flesh-pots of Europe with Mafia and drug problems.
