

47 Minutes on Christmas Eve (Third Edition)

A holiday fable with year-round meaning, 47 Minutes on Christmas Eve mixes everyday life and surreal imagery in a search for work-life balance in a digital age. Praised by John de Graaf, bestselling co-author of Affluenza, as deep and memorable with a powerful and timely message, it shows a way to find time when there seems to be no time, and how to hold on to the natural environment even when nature seems crowded out on all sides. And it does this through its main characters experience of a typical Christmas predicament of panic, stress, and running out of time. Reviewed as a treasure that will endure through the years (Lynchburg, Va., Ledger) and a magical tale of redemption (The Hook, Charlottesville), 47 Minutes has been compared (Virginia Living magazine) to the classics Alice in Wonderland and It's a Wonderful Life. The latter comparison turns out to be strangely appropriate, since the author discovered only after writing this book that he is related to the late Philip Van Doren Stern, who wrote the story behind the Frank Capra film. Entertaining, personable, challenging, surprising at every turn, ultimately 47 Minutes on Christmas Eve is a story about finding inspiration. It can be read to affirm life and love at any season, and for years to come.
