

Choice of Law and Forum Non Conveniens (Litigator Series)

THIS CASEBOOK contains a selection of 77 U. S. Court of Appeals decisions that discuss both choice of law and the doctrine of forum non conveniens. The selection of decisions spans from 2003 to the date of publication. For each circuit, the cases are listed in the order of frequency of citation. The most cited decisions appear first. The doctrine of forum non conveniens proceed[s] from [the] premise [that]. . . [i]n rare circumstances, federal courts can relinquish their jurisdiction in favor of another forum. DTEX, LLC v. BBVA Bancomer, 508 F.3d 785, 794 (5th Cir. 2007) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted; alterations in original). Dismissals for forum non conveniens are reversible only for clear abuse of discretion, and are accorded substantial deference so long as the court reasonably balanced the below-discussed factors. Id. Akerblom v. Ezra Holdings Limited, (5th Cir. 2013) Such dismissal requires the initial determination that an alternative and adequate forum exists for adjudication of the parties claims. Piper Aircraft Co. v. Reyno, 454 U.S. 235, 254 n.22 (1981). If it does, the court must determine which forum is best suited to the litigation, a task accomplished through the balancing of private- and public-interest factors. DTEX, 508 F.3d at 794. The movant bears the burden of proof on all elements of the doctrine, id.; and a district court may decline to exercise its jurisdiction if both convenience and the interests of justice favor a foreign trial. Karim v. Finch Shipping Co., Ltd., 265 F.3d 258, 268 (5th Cir. 2001). Ibid. An alternative forum exists when the entire case and all parties can come within the jurisdiction of that forum. Alpine View Co. Ltd. v. Atlas Copco AB, 205 F.3d 208, 221 (5th Cir. 2000) (citation omitted). And, the forum is adequate when the parties will not be deprived of all remedies or treated unfairly, even though they may not enjoy the same benefits as they might receive in an American court.
