

Calibre 2253 & 2260

In fine watchmaking, complications are sensory celebrations, incarnations of human ingenuity, mechanical expressions of excellence and beauty. Representing the crown jewels of a collection or the crowning achievement of a career, they are highly sought after by connoisseurs and watchmakers alike. At Vacheron Constantin the objective is not to pile on multiple complications, yet neither are they solely functional. Complications are mechanical reflections of the world around us. Executed with a fine blend of mechanical rigor, artistic liberty, and passion, they can awaken our emotions, spark our intellect, and call to our senses, striking a sensitive chord and speaking to our imagination. The epitome of Swiss precision, each timepiece housing these exceptional hand-crafted movements is brought to life with passion and pride, technical excellence, and pure poetry.
