They're known as the Billionaire Boys Club. They've made a fortune by taking over companies, ruthlessly firing their workers... and hiding their profits from the government. Financial reporter Karen Glick is determined to make a name for herself by exposing the club for tax fraud, but one thing is getting in the way--a radical group has targeted the Billionaire Boys for murder, one by one. As Karen keeps digging, she uncovers one particularly terrifying fact: She's become the group's latest target. Her story is no longer just a career-maker. Now it's a matter of life and death.
