

PRINCE OF INDIA

The capture of Constantinople in the Byzantine Empire, featuring the Wandering Jew. In many ways, this screenplay resembles BEN-HUR: it covers a period of many years, and its plot is built by putting together historical and geographical facts, and by weaving in a thread of romance. The second boat race introduced into this story suggests the famous chariot race in his BEN-HUR. This property has value in awakening an interest in a fascinating period of history, and fixing in the mind of the viewer many historic events and customs, while its treatment of the religious questions involved is both broad and comprehensive.
