

Thinking Aloud: Fragments of Autobiography

An actor, producer and director of works for stage, film and TV in Britain, this memoir proves Cotes to be most devoted to the living theater -Publishers Weekly. Cotes trained at the prestigious Italia Conti Stage School, and later, if not acting in them, he was directing some of the West Ends most famous and memorable productions. This is an informative backstage glimpse of the West Ends golden period, and of a man influential in launching such famous stars as Julie Andrews, Roger Moore, Tony Britton, and Janet Munro.
